

It's Like New...Minus the Pricetag

furniture rental program

Business moves fast. And in today's environment, you had better be able to keep up. When you have the opportunity to move to a new facility, or you need to add staff for a new project or contract you don't have time to put the work on hold while you wait for your furniture to arrive, or for funding to come through.

At Forrer, we understand that sometimes waiting is just not an option. If you need new furniture, and you need it now, we can help. With access to over 250,000 inventoried items from task chairs to conference tables to complete private office suites, we can get you up and running in just days, no matter the size of your project.

And the best part? You won't have to spend valuable capital in order to fund your project. Instead, you can make small monthly payments that qualify as operating expenses and are therefore tax-deductible. If you don't have the time or cash to buy, we can still help you get the furniture you need to keep your business moving forward.
